User System

An User System is a special external system that serves as medium between a user and the system without having its own interests in the communication.

Example

- Input Device or Display.

Related diagrams

- SysML Use Case Diagram