Boundary System

A Boundary System is a special external system that serves as medium between another system and the system under development without having its own interests in the communication.

> Example
>
> - Bus system.
> - Communication system.

Related diagrams

- SysML Use Case Diagram