Synchronizing changes in data hierarchy

The functionality of DHLink has been enhanced. The DHLink map is now stored along with the project so you can avoid conflicts in multi-user scenarios. The synchronization does not only limit for updating attribute values but also updating data hierarchy. When nodes are moved within the scope, synchronization also affects the changes in the data hierarchy next time you synchronize the data.