Triggering an Event

An execution engine can trigger a given Event by calling the triggerEvent(String event) of an ExecutionEngine. Just like the activateElement() and deactivateElement() methods, this method is mostly used in the ExecutionEngine.execute(element).

If the triggerElement(String event) is called, the eventTriggered(String eventID) of all registered engine listeners will be activated.