Creating predefined relation map

You can create predefined relation maps for the selected context elements.

To create the predefined relation map for the context element, do either

- Right-click the element, select Create Diagram and under the UAF Analysis Diagrams, and choose the relation map you want to create.
- Right-click the element, select Related Elements and then choose the relation map you want to create.

ⓘ You can also create the predefined relation maps in the following way:

- In the main toolbar, click the Create Diagram button, under the UAF Analysis Diagrams group, choose the relation map you want to create, and then select the context element.